Certificate in English (Upper Intermediate Level)

About the Programme

This programme upholds learning English skills in an integrated framework instead of separating them to suit the exam-oriented methodology common in English language education. Students learn and use the required language skills in connection with one another, rather than in separate courses that specialize in the drilling of one specific skill, be it reading, listening, speaking, or writing. This integrated approach offers a more comprehensive and coherent English learning experience that approximates authentic communicative contexts.

Through a variety of teaching approaches including but not limited to the communicative approach, the lexical approach, and the task-based learning approach, this programme aims to build on students' basic grammar skills and English structures, and expand their linguistic repertoire through exposure to and interaction with a range of authentic materials situated in common everyday settings. Through engagement in learning activities involving language materials of varied complexity and formality, students will become more ready and confident in expressing ideas with greater structure and fluency.

Expected Programme Learning Outcomes

Upon completion of the programme, students will have acquired the ability to:

- use correct grammar items and structures, and express ideas and opinions for clear, orderly communication of intent and goals in different everyday settings
- talk or present with a confident grasp of common vocabulary, expressions, and basic everyday English-speaking skills for various purposes
- extract and synthesize main points/themes from reading of both informally and formally structured materials for proper, responsive communication

Module 2: Upper Intermediate English I 進階英語 I

Building on basic grammar skills and English structures, this course constitutes the first step towards expanding students' linguistic repertoire through exposure to and interaction with a range of authentic materials situated in common everyday settings. ### Module 3: Upper Intermediate English II 進階英語 II
